Community growth, service delivery, and local leadership celebrated

It is a great pleasure and my honour that I welcome you once again to the issue of our third quarter newsletter for the 2024/2025 financial year and thank you for always giving us consistent support and interest in the gradual development within the District.

Our community continues to grow and evolve; therefore, it is essential to stay informed about the issues and initiatives that shape our landscape. As the Municipality we are entrusted with critical responsibilities of ensuring its reliable, safe, and equitable distribution to all residents. In this edition we take a closer look at the key developments and the decisions that are impacting our Municipality.

As we begin the year 2025, it is an honour and a privilege opportunity to reflect on the plans and highlights of the past year, particularly the achievements of the Matric class of 2024. To the Harry Gwala District Matric Class of 2024, I would like to extend my warmest congratulations on completing this significant milestone in your educational journey. The class of 2024 results are a testament to the hard work and commitment of our young generation. It is a clear indication that the future is bright, and it is in appropriate hands. To extend our gratitude the District held the 2025 back-to-school campaign led by the KZN Legislature. The aim of this campaign was to observe the school functionality and performances. His Worship the Mayor of the Harry Gwala District Municipality, Cllr ZD Nxumalo, also briefly visited schools that underperformed in their matric results. The visit was pursued at finding ways to support and encourage them to do better.

The Municipality has performed remarkably well in gaining the confidence of its communities through accelerating service delivery implementation of its core functions, namely water and sanitation. Each year, the water report outlines the planned projects and their intended completion dates. One of such projects was the handover of the rollback truck to the uMngeni water service office to assist communities across the whole district and conducted a site visit inspection in various centres to monitor and gauge progress. This was to ensure an intervention is provided where needed.

Through every organisation's success, there is a need for rules and regulations to be implemented and be partnered with different stakeholders such as working with traditional leaders. The Municipality recently welcomed the prominent leader of the community Inkosi Mboneni Benedict Mjoli. He took an oath of office before the leadership of the District during his inauguration. Inkosi Ntobeko Msingaphantsi of AmaBhaca Zwelethu Traditional Council was also visited by the District accompanied by the MEC for Transport and Human Settlement, Siboniso Duma. The existing traditional leaders were paid visits by the MEC Thulasizwe Buthelezi from the Cooperative Governance and Traditional Affairs (COGTA). This shows cultural diversity enclosed in this local government organisation. Moreover, provide the Municipality with enhanced support from the local and provincial government. Finally, the Municipality leadership were granted an opportunity to undergo the anti-corruption and code of ethical leadership workshop on local government to remind them to do the right thing even when no one is watching.

The public service delivery system's role is to eradicate negative indicators that interfere with the standard of living in South Africa. As part of the municipality's strategies to implement an integrated approach to public service delivery, the Harry Gwala District employed several employees. This serves as an act of reducing the "unemployment rate". These employees had a privilege to be warmly welcomed by the Municipal Manager Gamakulu Sineke. In addition, the Employment Expanded Public Works Programme (EPWP), contributed significantly by creating (312) job opportunities in 2024 within the District. The EPWP launched Phase 5 which divulged new and upgraded strategies that have long-term commitment towards ensuring the programme leads to future employability, self-employment, cooperatives, or enterprises that can employ more people. Indeed, this programme has great plans for the youth of South Africa.

'No citizen should be left behind'. This phrase emphasizes the importance of providing equal policies or initiatives aimed at ensuring that every citizen, regardless of their background or circumstances has access to essential services and opportunities with the goal of preventing anyone from being marginalized in society. The Harry Gwala District actively recognizes and appreciates the invaluable lives of senior citizens for the role they play in our lives. The District Mayor, Cllr Zamo Nxumalo hosted a Christmas party and celebrated the winners of the Golden Games from all the sister municipalities within the Districts. This was to embrace their presence and make conscious efforts to express gratitude for their love, support and sacrifices especially as they age, and time becomes increasingly precious.

In conclusion, the Constitution (section 152(1)(a)) requires local government to provide democratic and accountable government to local communities. Thus, there is no doubt that the local community is the primary stakeholder of a municipality. I therefore pledge to all the members of our communities within sister municipalities to take this platform at heart as it is the part of our primary source of communication and informative way of dwelling all about the progress that is happening in the district. This is a perfect platform to share important updates, celebrate achievements and address concerns in a structured manner. This helps us to establish a regular communication rhythm that keeps employees informed and engaged by making them feel connected to their municipality and community.

Harry Gwala District: A Year of Education, Strategic Growth, and Clean Governance

GREETINGS to all the citizens of our region, the Harry Gwala District. I greet you warmly through this platform, which is one of the many tools we as the District utilize to cascade and disseminate updates to citizens across the region. The year 2025 has indeed kicked-off and is well underway.

As I write this foreword, the new academic year is already in full swing, and the learners have adjusted to the routine of attending classes and doing homework after the December vacations.

I started purposefully with education.

Indeed, it remains one of the channels to success. As it takes a collective to educate our children, including parents, teachers, school governing body and government, I, on behalf of all the learners of the Matric Class of 2024, well done for the great results and for hoisting the flag of our beautiful region with the display of your hard work and potential for us, as the citizens of the District to be proud of, and for the rest of the province of KwaZulu-Natal and the rest of country to join us congratulating your superb efforts.

On behalf of the HGDM, I congratulate you once more and wish you all the best in your future endeavours. By the same token I wish for you great success and go out there and make your families proud, your communities and your District proud. Remember we are also counting on you to contribute solutions as well to the challenges facing our District.

School Functionality

While on the topic of education and its importance, various Councillors of HGDM including myself took part in school functionality visits across various local municipalities within our District to ensure that all systems go for the new academic year. Together with the KwaZulu-Natal MEC for Education, the Honourable Siphon Hlomuka, we were provided with updates of the previous year's academic achievements and challenges that our schools are faced with. On the side of the District there were commitments that were made to ensure that the District plays its role in ensuring that teaching and learning proceeds unhindered. I wish to take this opportunity to commend educators for the work that they do to shape the futures of our children. We will endeavour to resolve, where we can, the issues related to the mandate of the District that are contributing to the impediment of teaching and learning.

His Worship the District Mayor
Cllr. Z.D Nxumalo

District's Strategic Planning Session

A strategic planning session typically has multiple goals, which include but not limited to, providing a platform for leaders to review or share or emphasize their vision for the District. This is to ensure that all within the institution sing from the same hymn book and establish clear and measurable goals and targets that must be reached and even exceeded.

Such sessions, which the HGDM held recently serve as either a rebooting or review point and a platform for assessment and re-strategizing to achieve the intended outcomes for our citizens. This included, during the recent discussions, addressing project delays, enhancing the delivery of water and sanitation to communities and as I have mentioned above to the education facilities within our region. We took resolutions, matched them up with timeframes for our administration to implement. We will monitor once again, closely the progress and where intervention is needed, we will not hesitate to intervene and assist.

We are committed to attaining a clean audit opinion and together with the administration, at all levels, this is our vision and we are certain it is within reach.”

Unqualified Audit Opinion

I wish to touch on the Auditor-General of South Africa issuing an unqualified audit opinion for the year under review (2023/2024). The opinion was again a recognition of the clean governance and transparency that HGDM continuously displays. This is topped by the oversight exercised by Council and committees of Council on the implementation of the plans that have been resolved by the Councillors for endorsement and support. We are committed to attaining a clean audit opinion and together with the administration, at all levels, this is our vision and we are certain it is within reach.

Welcome to Inkosi M.B. Mjoli

As I conclude, allow me to congratulate and welcome Inkosi Mjoli for being inducted to serve in the Council of the Harry Gwala District Municipality. Inkosi Mjoli is a leader that I respect and is respected across the district. I have all the confidence in him that he will be cherished in addition to our Council.

I thank you.

HGDM forges forward with improved service delivery, ethical behaviour and transparency in its activities

GREETINGS to all citizens, consumers, and partners of the Harry Gwala District Municipality, As we begin a new year, I am pleased to reflect on the progress we have made as an organization and the opportunities that lie ahead. At the Harry Gwala District Municipality, we remain committed to delivering quality services to our communities and promoting a culture of ethical leadership and good governance.

I am delighted to report that our efforts have been recognized by the Auditor-General of South Africa, who has awarded us an Unqualified Audit opinion for the previous financial year of 2023/2024. This achievement is a testament to our commitment to transparency, accountability, and good financial management, demonstrating that the Harry Gwala District Municipality is making good progress in managing its finances effectively and utilizing public funds efficiently.

In this current financial year, the Harry Gwala Municipality held its Draft Budget and Adjustment Budget strategic planning session from the 3rd of February 2025 until the 7th of February 2025. This session focused on implementing our budget adjustment strategy, which aims to ensure that our resources are allocated efficiently and effectively. The strategic planning session allowed us to adjust our budget by prioritizing areas that are critical to our service delivery mandate, as per the Municipal Finance Management Act (MFMA) No. 56 of 2003, which stipulates in Section 69 that the accounting officer of the municipality is responsible for implementing the municipality's approved budget, including taking all reasonable steps to ensure:

- A) That the spending of funds is in accordance with the budget and is reduced as necessary when revenue is anticipated to be less than projected in the budget or in the service delivery and budget implementation plan.
- B) That revenue and expenditure are properly monitored.

As we welcome the new year, we are excited to have supported our communities through the "Back-to-School Campaign," an initiative aimed at providing support to learners, educators, and schools, ensuring that they have the resources they need to succeed.

As we move forward, we remain committed to upholding the principles of ethical leadership and good governance. We believe that these principles are essential for building trust and confidence with our stakeholders and ensuring the delivery of quality services to our communities.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank our employees, councillors, and stakeholders for their hard work and dedication to our organization. Together, we can achieve great things and make a positive impact on the lives of our community. I thank you.

UNDERSTANDING WETLANDS

World Wetlands Day is celebrated every year on 2 February.

THE theme for World Wetlands Day 2025 is "Protecting Wetlands for Our Common Future" this theme highlights the profound connection between wetlands and human well-being. World Wetlands Day is an ideal time to grow our understanding of what needs to be done and what we can do now. Having different theme celebration each year, highlights the different benefits of wetlands for people and the health of the planet.

WHAT ARE WETLANDS

Wetlands are important features in the landscape that provide numerous beneficial services for people, aquatic life and wildlife. Some of these services, include protecting and improving water quality, providing fish and wildlife habitats, storing floodwaters and maintaining surface water flow during dry periods. These valuable functions/services are the result of the unique natural characteristics of wetlands.

Wetlands are among the most productive ecosystems in the world, comparable to rain forests and coral reefs. Wetlands can be thought of as "biological supermarkets" since they provide great volumes of food that attract many animal species. These animals use wetlands for their life-cycle.

Wetlands function and value of these functions to humans depend on a complex set of relationships between the wetland and the other ecosystems in the watershed. A watershed is a geographic area in which water, sediments and dissolved materials drain from higher elevations to a common low-lying outlet.

WHY ARE WETLANDS IMPORTANT?

Many species of birds and mammals rely on wetlands for food, water and shelter, especially during migration and breeding. Wetlands store carbon within their plant communities and soil instead of releasing it to the atmosphere as carbon dioxide. Thus wetlands help to moderate global climate conditions. Wetlands also play important role in the following:

1. Water purification
2. Groundwater recharge
3. Flood protection

1. WETLANDS AND WATER PURIFICATION

Many pollutants are washed by rainfall from urban, rural and agricultural lands and are carried overland to water bodies. Pollutants include soil particles, fertilizers, pesticides, grease and oil from cars and trucks, and road salts. Wetlands can improve water quality by removing these pollutants from surface waters. Three pollutant removal processes provided by wetlands are particularly important: sediment trapping, nutrient removal and chemical detoxification.

Wetlands protect water quality by trapping sediments and retaining excess nutrients and other pollutants such as heavy metals. Wetlands also filter and process excess nutrients that may runoff from agricultural and development sites. Wetlands can be called "the kidneys of our watersheds." Because they remove waste in water.

2. WETLANDS AND GROUNDWATER RECHARGE

Groundwater provides water for drinking, irrigation, and keeping water flowing in our streams, rivers, lakes and reservoirs. During periods of low stream flows, the slow discharge of groundwater to surface waters often helps maintain minimum water levels. In addition, wetlands help maintain streams, lakes, and reservoirs by releasing stored water directly into these systems. Water seeps into the ground to replenish underground aquifers. This means that wetlands play an important role in replenishing groundwater.

Wetlands collect and store fresh water at the surface from rain and overland flow, slowly releasing it back into the ground where it can once again be used to provide water to communities in a form of boreholes or springs etc.

3. WETLANDS AND FLOODS

Wetlands have the ability to provide some measure of flood protection by holding excess water after a storm and then releasing it slowly. The size, shape, location, and soil type of a wetland determine its ability to reduce local and downstream flooding. While wetlands cannot prevent flooding from happening, they do lower the severity by temporarily holding water and slowing its velocity. Wetland soil acts as a sponge, holding more water than other soil types. Trees, root mats and other wetland vegetation also slow the speed of flood waters and distribute them more slowly over the floodplain. This combined water storage and braking action lowers flood heights and reduces the erosive energy of water moving downstream.

Wetlands within and downstream of urban areas are particularly valuable, counteracting the greatly increased rate and volume of surface water runoff from pavement and buildings. The holding capacity of wetlands helps control floods and prevents water logging of crops. If wetlands did not exist to hold stormwater runoff, more backyards and houses would end up underwater during floods. Thus preserving and restoring wetlands do provide a level of flood control for free.

WHY YOU SHOULD CARE ABOUT WETLANDS

- i. Wetlands purify our water: Wetlands are great filters! They trap sediments and remove pollutants, which helps to purify water. This certainly beats expensive, human-made filtration systems.
- ii. Wetlands store our water to ensure supply during dry season: Wetlands work like giant sponges. They store water and then slowly release it, and this helps to deal with dry seasons with little rainfall.
- iii. Wetlands can prevent floods: When rivers burst their banks, wetlands can store the excess water and slow it down so it distributes more evenly over a floodplain. The roots of trees and other vegetation in the wetland also help slow the speed of flood waters.
- iv. Wetlands recharge groundwater: Wetlands allow water to soak into the ground to replenish the natural groundwater supply.
- v. Wetlands help to control erosion: Sediments are trapped by wetlands. Wetlands also reduces the erosive energy of water to washdown the soil leaving land vulnerable to erosion.
- vi. Wetlands protect Biodiversity: Many different kinds of species depend on wetlands. Wetlands boost biodiversity and offer recreational and business opportunities.

MAJOR THREATS TO WETLANDS

Although legislation has greatly slowed wetland destruction and loss, the ecological health of the remaining wetlands are still under threat from the following factors but not limited to:

- Habitat fragmentation
- Polluted runoff
- Water level changes
- Invasive species
- Climate change
- Population growth

The District has assigned plumbers and water monitors to ensure clean and running water is delivered in this area".

Despite the challenges the school faces on a daily basis, teachers and learners strive for excellence against all odds. The school was also advised to give lower grades the same treatment and attention as they give the Grade 12 learners in order to maintain holistic applaudable performance for the school.

The programme then proceeded to Emtshibeni Secondary for the continuation of the school functionality and monitoring. Some of the challenges at the school included overcrowding and lack of resources. The school received a 100% pass rate for matric 2024. Day two of the programme continued within the District with the

As the nation is experiencing unacceptable high levels of brutal killing against women and children, the citizens are fed up and cannot continue to call this Gender-Based Violence while women and children continue to be the victims.

Cllr Noluthando Mhatu expressed this during her speech adding that; "My heart bleeds after hearing the news of her passing. We now need men to play their roles to protect women and children. As women, we have marched, prayed but the killings continue. We know that not all men have lost their hearts and we call on them to be voices of reason. Men must take a stand to stop these killings of women and children. Women cannot even walk freely fearing to be attacked or killed even by those who claimed to love them".

District Speaker, SD Mdunge added that may the condolences "bring you comfort, prayers ease the pain of this loss. Prayers and fond memories are what we have to remember the ones we have lost," said the Speaker, adding that it was a very painful moment to hear the family of Phelokazi detailing the kind of a person she was, indeed "isitsha esihle asidleli".

The Family extended their gratitude to the District for the support they received during this saddest period of their lives. Ms. Phelokazi Faith Mafa was laid to rest on 21 December 2024 at her home in Mambulwini Location.

It is important to send a message to people in order to accept and welcome who you are. You are full members of our beautiful diverse community. You should never ever feel afraid and live in fear. That is not the kind of society we want to build. So, we wanted to be here to send that message and to give encouragement to people who are LGBTQIA+ in townships, that we love you," said the Speaker of Harry Gwala District Municipality.
